

Ari Bisk

"Long Island sleight-of-hand magician"

Close-Up Magic

Biography

Ari Bisk has loved magic and sleight of hand since he was a kid, staging a mini performance for his first grade class on his birthday and perfecting the craft ever since. Seeing David Blaine's Street Magic documentary turned a lifelong hobby into a profession: the two card monte was the first trick he had to learn, and the reactions from his family kept him going.

Ari lives on Long Island today with his wife and son, entertaining audiences large and small with performances custom designed to meet the needs and desires of his clients. He performs to make people laugh and to deliver the thrill of the unexpected, the joy of surprise, and confounding sights they don't see every day.
