

Daniel David

"Corporate mentalist and keynote entertainer"

Biography

Daniel David is a corporate mentalist and keynote entertainer whose mind reading and psychological illusion has been welcomed by companies including Coca-Cola, Harley-Davidson, Capital One, Carnival Cruise Lines and Google. Rather than a stand-up set or a conference speech, his work uses unique techniques that draw an audience into active listening, timely applause and laughter.

Psychological illusion, clean humour and personal stories combine into a shared experience: guests find themselves gasping as private details are named aloud, then laughing a moment later. He works equally well as a mix-and-mingle presence before dinner and as a full show afterwards, and suits luxury events, conferences, executive gatherings and private celebrations, with repeat bookings from clients who return year after year.
