

Dev Sherman

"Personal card magic confronting an inner critic"

Close-Up Magic

Biography

Dev Sherman appeared on Penn & Teller: Fool Us in 2020 with an original card routine built around a conversation with his inner critic. The episode transcript verifies his identity, presentation and personal account of using performance to work through insecurity. It also records an earlier university-era trip to Nepal where he shared magic across a language barrier. No reliable current performer site, professional biography, booking contact, location or later-career source was found, so the profile should remain a restrained historical record rather than implying present availability.
