

Gotaishi

"Japanese Buddhist storytelling through cups, balls and wonder"

Close-Up Magic | Parlour Magic

Biography

Gotaishi, written in Japanese, is a working Buddhist priest and magician whose performances connect traditional religious imagery with close-up and parlour magic. His performer-controlled shop offers original cups-and-balls instruction and a recording of his solo show Myh, built around Buddhist ideas, audience participation, cards and visual magic. Current local reporting documents a 2025 family prayer-and-magic event, confirming continued public performance before his 2025 Fool Us appearance. Research did not establish an expanded civil name, current home city, direct booking contact or general event-availability page.
