Biography

Award-winning teenage magician Jack Schwartz has been named Junior Stage Magician of the Year by the Vancouver Magic Circle and took both the junior close-up and stage titles with the Pacific Coast Association of Magicians. At 17 he has been featured in local theatres, on television and at national fundraising events.

His magic works close: roaming through a room performing inches from guests, then stepping up for a feature show for the whole crowd - interactive, funny and suited to five guests or five hundred. Selected for the Academy of Magical Arts, Junior Society in Los Angeles, Jack has learned from masters including Asi Wind, Michael Ammar and Joshua Jay, and produced and performed his own show, 'Generations: A Magic Show'. He plays weddings, corporate events and children's parties across Vancouver and the Lower Mainland.
