

Jibrizy

"Chicago hip-hop sleight built for streets, arenas and social video"

Based in Chicago | Close-Up Magic

Biography

Jibrizy is the stage name of Chicago-area magician and social creator Jibrizy Taylor. He developed a fast, visual style of close-up and street magic around hip-hop culture, sports and online video, performing for the Chicago Bulls and becoming a young Fool Us trophy winner. Industry material documents a large social audience and tens of millions of magic-video views, while his performer-controlled social account remained active in 2025. His former official website is offline, and research did not verify a current public booking route, so the profile can describe an active creator without claiming that private or corporate engagements are presently available.
