

Makoto Halverson

"Los Angeles sleight of hand pursuing honest minor miracles"

Based in Temple City | Close-Up Magic

Biography

Makoto Halverson is a Japanese American close-up magician based in Temple City, California. His performer-controlled site describes his work as minor miracles through sleight of hand and links official performance, social and Magic Castle channels. A self-authored professional profile records more than fifteen years in professional magic, current Magic Castle activity and recent work with traditional cups and balls. Halverson appeared on Penn & Teller: Fool Us with an intimate close-up presentation. Research did not establish a clear public booking process or direct email address, so the profile should document active work without claiming general event availability.
