Martin Almada

"Illusionist for family and corporate shows"

Based in Buenos Aires | Stage Illusion

Biography

Martín Almada is a magician and illusionist whose work runs from playful magic for the very youngest guests to theatrical-scale illusion for adult audiences. The children's programme is a family show built around the appearances of animals, while the stage version is made of surprising, interactive illusions.

Almada travels with a full production - music, lighting and a curtain that turn an ordinary room into a magical atmosphere, as one client described it. Families write of children and grown-ups alike left fascinated, and of a performer whose punctuality and care match the show he promises. He suits birthdays, corporate and social events, adult audiences and schools, including the special days when children come to see where their parents work.
