

Rick Maisel

"Unusual escape artistry built around machines, height and nerve"

Stage Magic

Biography

Rick Maisel is an American escape artist known for unusual large-scale challenges, including an escape from a working washing machine and a suspended hot-air-balloon stunt. He brought the washing-machine act to both America's Got Talent and Penn & Teller: Fool Us, establishing a distinctive profile within contemporary escapology. Available sources confirm the performer and his historical specialty, but current research did not locate a reliable official website, recent professional calendar, home base or booking contact. The FindMagic record should therefore document his verified television work without implying that he remains available for live engagements.

Booking, profile, and official links

Booking enquiries are subject to current tour availability.

Booking enquiry <https://findmagic.show/rick-maisel#enquire>

FindMagic profile <https://findmagic.show/rick-maisel>