

Simon Pierro

"Digital illusion where iPads and AI become impossible"

Corporate Events | Mentalism | Stage Magic

Biography

Simon Pierro is a German digital magician whose performances turn familiar technology into playful impossibility. Known internationally for pioneering iPad magic, he now also builds programs around artificial intelligence, innovation and the future of human creativity. His current official site offers customized shows and keynotes for companies, conferences, trade fairs and media productions, with an enquiry route for international work. Pierro appeared twice on Fool Us, bringing polished screen-based illusion to the television stage. Research supports an active career in southern Germany, but not one exact current home city.
