

Sinbad Max

"Beijing coin magic built around elegant visual surprises"

Based in Philadelphia | Close-Up Magic

Biography

Sinbad Max is a Chinese magician recognized for technically demanding coin magic and sharply constructed surprise endings. A Magicians' Alliance of Eastern States profile places him in Beijing and describes formative influences including David Roth, Curtis Kam and Kainoa Harbottle. His Fool Us performance continued that visual, sleight-driven approach for an international television audience. The available evidence verifies the performer and his specialty, but research did not locate a durable current official website, public schedule, professional booking route or sufficiently recent source confirming his present career status. The profile should therefore remain factual and non-bookable.
