"Magic, science and startup thinking made usefully impossible"

Close-Up Magic | Stage Magic

Biography

Till Haunschild is a German magician, technology entrepreneur and keynote speaker who turns ideas from illusion into lessons about invention and organizational change. His current official site describes thirty years of international magic and seven company-building ventures, offering bookable talks that weave storytelling, psychology, misdirection, sleight of hand and science. Direct email and phone contacts confirm current availability for live and virtual events. Haunschild's Fool Us act used quantum physics as its comic and conceptual framework. The evidence supports Germany as his base country, though not one exact current home city.
